Seeing the need to help in-home child care professionals understand tax laws, Kelly Nokleby started up her own business, Books by Kelly. Her goal when starting the business, and yet today, is to ensure all taxpayers have an understanding of tax law as it applies to their individual situation to put them in a healthy financial situation.

Books by Kelly offers tax preparation, tax planning, bookkeeping, payroll, and other tax related services to small businesses, specifically child care facilities. While Books by Kelly is able to serve customers all around the United States, Kelly finds it especially gratifying to serve Granite Falls, the community she calls home.

"I love having an opportunity to give back to my community and profession. Granite Falls is where my husband grew up and where we raised our family. I enjoy working and living in the same community so that I have the opportunity to give back to my neighbors and friends."

Owning a business can be hard work, but Kelly says it is "worth every ounce of blood, sweat, and tears." She is thankful for those who have supported her along the way—her husband and son, FM Bank, and the UMRDC's RLF.

"The RLF was there for me from day one when I purchased my office building in Granite Falls. Without the support of the RLF, financing would have been much more expensive."
